PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

This quarterly is late, late, late and no one knows this better than I. However I know just why this is true but few if any of you can say that.

This, the Spring Quarterly, with the Ancestor Registry, is my favorite issue. It is almost a glorified variation of "looking for a needle in the hay stack" or a possible simple game of chance. Most times I find something that seems just for me. I usually study the corresponding issues of our exchange quarterlies. Other people evidently do the same because I am still receiving replies from the nineteen sheets I submitted for our 1966 quarterly.

When your family sheets are received by our editor they are checked and then each is transferred to 3 x 5 inch cards. These cards are then alphabetized and then copied. Your sheets are then returned to you for your files. These should be retained for corrections and additions. They may then be resubmitted for another publication. Also the permanent cards will be corrected. You are welcome to use this permanent file.

To prevent a major work load at any one time, please send in your sheets throughout the year. Be sure that you send yours in on or before January first. Each member may submit twenty records each year - one sheet for each marriage in your lines.

Please check to see that you have everything typed or printed; that all surnames are in capital letters; that you used the maiden names of all women; that you have entered no initials; that all children are listed in order of birth with your ancestor's name underlined; and finally recheck each sheet for neatness and accuracy.

Good wishes and happy ancestor searching.

Annie T. Giles

Prince William County, Virginia

This county is one of the key counties in doing genealogical or historical work in the Northern Neck of Virginia. Prince William County was formed under a decree of the Assembly in 1731 and was taken out of the jurisdiction prior to that date which was under Stafford County, Virginia. The land area of Prince William County in 1731, when it was "cut off" from Stafford Co., included the lands upward between the waters of the Potomac and the Rappahannock Rivers. By waters is meant the tributary streams to these two large rivers. However, a little confusion comes into the tracing of the land titles of the new Prince William County, due to the fact that it is not well-known as a fact that the narrow strip of land of Stafford and later Prince William and Fauquier Co. had been a part of old Richmond County. Hence a few of the land titles will not be found in Stafford or Westmoreland Co. as would be expected, but will be found on Richmond and Essex Co. books. That is, the old books found at Tappahannock, Essex Co. which really are the books of what we now call Old Rappahannock Co. Old Rappahannock Co. was divided in 1692 into Richmond Co. and Essex Co. and the name of Rappahannock for the county was dropped. The new Rappahannock Co. lying westward of Fauquier and Culpeper, was not formed until about 1830.

But in the main, the history of Prince William Co. runs back to Stafford and Westmoreland Counties for land owners and grants. Prince William County is essential in searching Stafford County families. Prince William County is essential in running back on the families of Fairfax, Fauquier, and Loudoun Co., Fairfax County was formed in 1742, carrying with it Loudoun County area.

Fauquier County remained a part of Prince William until 1757 when it was formed, carrying the area out to the Shenandoah River in 1757. Families who removed to Fairfax, Loudoun, or Fauquier directly from other counties, such as Westmoreland, Richmond, etc., often never actually resided in Prince William, but they were under the jurisdiction of that court until the new courts of their new residences were established. Thus we often find important data on the books in Prince William County which show the migrations.

The parishes of Prince William County were Dettengen and Hamilton. Dettengen Parish is wholly contained within the present limits of Prince William County, but Hamilton Parish was not contiguous with Prince William County as it extended over into Fauquier County.

You will find mention of the Manor of Leeds in early Prince William County and later in Fauquier County. This was the only manor formed in this section and it extended to the Shenandoah River and bordered on Frederick County. This is often confused with Leeds Parish which parish was later named from the manor. Fairfax Harrison's book, Old Landmarks of Prince William County, is very valuable and is authentic. The Northern Neck Grant Books in the Archives of the Virginia State Library, the taxes, rent rolls, etc. provide additional source material.

A wrong impression has been published on the material for research work in the Court House at Manassas, Prince William County, Va. This has been due to the fact that a will book and a few of the deed books are missing, having been taken away by the Federal Army during their occupation of Manassas, but there is a large amount of material in the record room of the Court House. This material enables one to bridge over this loss of records and if one gets the data from the source material in the Archives Division, of the Va. State Library, they can usually work out any genealogical problem on families who ever appear on the Prince William County books.

Material at Manassas, Virginia.

Will Books - one or two are missing.

Deed Books - two or three are missing.

Court Order Books - these begin in 1733 and are nearly continuous on down the years.

The Court Order Books are the day books of the county clerk in which he notes down every document brought in to his office to be recorded, as well as the minutes of the court, and they are very essential in doing research work. They bridge over the gaps of the missing books.

Rule Books and Minute Books are like the Court Order Books.

There is an old Bond Book.

The original index to all records of Prince William Co., Va.

This index from A to M was evidently in a separate book and has been lost, but the alphabet from M to Z is still extant.

One of the most valuable sources for research for the whole Northern Neck of Virginia is found in the Courthouse at Manassas. This consists of several "Land Cause Books." These books were from the old District Court held at Haymarket. In these books are lawsuits and controversies over boundaries and ownership and heirship. In these old cases exhibits were brought in to prove the contentions made in the suits. These exhibits are: old wills, deeds, grants, affidavits, depositions, and all sorts of material placed before the Court. These books are partly indexed but one should scan them to get complete information. The information given often runs back to the original patentee and covers many counties.

In doing research in Prince William or in any other county in Virginia, it is not safe to rely solely on any index, particularly in deeds, as in the recitation of the legal title to the land, one often finds much family data on persons named as the grantor or the grantee.

Many of the abstracts we are quoting were found by scanning any and all of the books of Prince William County for information on particular names or data in general for our files.

This could be most important to anyone working in the Northern Neck of Virginia. This came in a personal letter from a Virginian who was selling me on the idea of doing research in person and on the ground.

The following was submitted by Mrs. E. Viola Long, 2837 1/2 San Gabriel, Austin, Texas 78705:

"I have had several experiences of finding interesting things in old trunks; in fact, that is the way I got started on ancestor hunting. The latest came to me a few days ago from an old trunk that was purchased for restoration. Inside was found a panel 14" x 26" done in black and gold. The paper on which the panel is printed is now brittle with age and has some torn places on the edges, but it could be restored and laminated for preservation. It is quite ornate in the style of late 1800's with angels supporting a wreath of golden roses around a cross, and at the base of the cross the following memorial:

In Loving Remembrance of
Our Dear Children
ELIZA A. FINLEY,
Died March 5, 1877: Aged 6 M., 5 D.
CHARLEY W. FINLEY,
Died October 2, 1880: Aged 9 M., 2 D.
U. P. FINLEY,
Died April 4, 1885: Aged 5 Y., 3 M., 11 D.
M. B. SLOAN nee FINLEY,
Died June 23, 1900: Aged 22 Y., 5 M., 18 D.
P. P. SLOAN nee FINLEY,
Died June 18, 1901: Aged 27 Y., 1 M., 23 D.

Purchased by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. FINLEY

"At the bottom of this panel is the notation: Copyrighted by The Brown Pub. Co., Warren, Ohio. I have copied the above just as it appears on the panel and there is no further information.

"If any of the FINLEY Clan can identify this family as being their lineage, I shall be happy to give the panel to them."
