Austin Genealogical Society's workshop held on 15 April 1972 was a great success in every respect. Our warmest thanks are extended to Mrs. Mary Bondurant Warren, who gave us so much helpful information, and to Mrs. J.B. Golden, Mr. David Reeves, and Dr. Chester Kielman, our other speakers, for their contributions.

Deep appreciation goes to Mrs. Ira D. Stockebrand, whose untiring efforts as general chairman really put it over; to Mr. Seth D. Breeding for his ice-breaking introductions; to our president, Mrs. J.M. Pinckney, Jr., for presiding so graciously; to Mrs. Richard H. Hight for managing the finances, and to all who worked long and hard throughout.

A critique covering all details involved has been held, and the committee made plans for workshops to be held at least once a year in the future, with perhaps a smaller, local one alternately. Suggestions about these will be welcomed by the president.

Mr. Seth Breeding reports that Mrs. Ira Stockebrand has generously turned over to him all her AGS quarterlies, saying that since she has no Travis County ancestors she does not feel the need to keep them. Thus we have been able to fill some gaps in our stock for sale. It is hoped that any other members who are in Mrs. Stockebrand's situation will feel inclined to follow her example. See back of this issue for Mr. Breeding's address.

p.1, col.6.... The Statesman regrets that the artesian well in the capitol grounds which has had so much money spent on it, should so long be neglected and left in an utterly useless condition.

.... W. Sims was fatally stabbed by Giles Burdett, in Austin, on Thursday night last.

ibid., Saturday, September 26, 1874

p.1, Col.6.... Mr. Young, of Travis Co., is raising camels successfully. He sold several a few days since for eight hundred dollars each, and has many more on his ranch.

p.2, col.1.... Hon. M.C. Hamilton and Capt. James P. McKinney had a misunderstanding at Austin, which resulted in a knock-down of the honorable gentleman. Married. - on Wednesday evening, 26th inst., at the residence of S.A.J. Haynie, by the Hon.
John B. Costa, Hugh H. Haynie to Miss M.L. Bremond, all of this city.

In the hurry of the moment, Hugh has, no doubt, forgotten to forward the appropriate quantum of cake, but that matters not. He is freely forgiven provided he promises to behave considerately in the future.

As for the part of the fair young bride, we can always find it in our heart to forgive her.
It is pretty well ascertained she had been for some time placed upon a strict regimen of cant-elope melons, a diet she did not relish, and doubtless her joy at being able to escape from its infliction rendered her oblivious to the requirements of other peoples palates.

May they never meet with greater cares on life's chequered journey than our prayers would give them.
