FAMILY LAND HERITAGE PROGRAM

Each year since 1974 the Texas Department of Agriculture has recognized families who have operated a farm or a ranch on the same land continuously for a hundred years. Brief histories of the award-winning families, naming successive land owners and their children and grouped under the respective county name, are published annually.

Since the attractive volumes (which include many heirloom pictures) have the names of only current land owners in their indexes, AGS Quarterly is attempting to remedy that deficiency as space permits. Instead of page numbers, we group the names by their counties (which cover only a few pages), assuming that the researcher will want to read about all his ancestor's neighboring relatives and friends.

Apologies are offered if some surnames are wrong - sometimes the narratives are hard to interpret as to generations - whether Tom, Dick and Mary are children of the founder or his daughter.

Married names are in parentheses in the book, but the genealogical form (maiden names in parentheses) is used herein. If a name is unknown, we put three dots in parentheses; nicknames are in quotation marks; editorial suggestions in brackets; "pic" indicates that there is a picture of family members or buildings on the given page.

Volume 4 (1978) starts herewith.

ABMORMAL PROBATE RECORDS By Mrs. H. L. Lyon

Probate records are the documents most sought after by those who are doing family research. They are of three varieties: 1. Written will - signed by signature or mark and witnessed by two or more individuals who testify that they wiressed such signature or mark; 2. Intestate proceedings (no will) - often the most informative, as, for example, if the widow must sue for her dower rights they name all of her children and sons-in-law; and 3. Nuncupative (oral will) - usually quite brief and lacking in the details we prefer. The testator's desires are presented to the court by witnesses who heard him proclaim them.

These definitions appear to be straightforward but do not take into consideration the vagaries of human nature, problematical circumstances, variation of requirements by courts, the unexplained and the unexpected. The purpose of this article is to present departures from normal probate records.

Ideally, the testator will name all his children when making a will. He will add "eldest son/daughter," "second son/daughter," "youngest son/daughter," and so forth. Too often, instead, he says "my minor children" and our ancestor is lost in this unnamed group. Guardianship records frequently solve this problem. If there is property, there will be receipts showing when minor children received their portions. Sons received their part at 21 unless their father stipulated a different age, usually older than 21. A daughter inherited at age 21 or, when she married, her husband received her part of the estate regardless of her age.

William Jackson died intestate in Sumner County, Tennessee, in 1845. Charles Jackson was appointed administrator for the estate. WAs Charles the father, brother, cousin, or friend? There were many Jacksons in the county. Charles filed an inventory of the estate together with the widow Sarah Jackson. The commissioners allotted various amounts of food (corn, sugar, etc.) for "the widow Sarah Jackson and family." Sarah did not sue for dower rights; there are no guardianship records. My grandfather and his sister were raised by Charles who was their uncle according to what he told his family in later years; they were in Charles' household in 1850 with no relationship stated, of course; another child, James, was there also and fitted in age so he might have been my great-uncle. A cousin of mine knew "Uncle Jim" and had heard of "Uncle Dock." But, were these children of William? Charles could have been a great-uncle or a friend old enough to have the courtesy title of "uncle"; James is a common given name and, in fact, there was more than one James Jackson in Sumner County; and "Dock" is obviously a nickname. With the total departure from legal requirements found in other states, it seemed doubtful that this line could ever be proved.

But proof has been found and the solution is set forth here with the hope that it may help others with similar problems. It was found in a deed book, oddly enough. At the February 1850 court, in a suit brought against Charles Jackson as administrator of the estate of William Jackson, the widow Jackson wife of William Jackson and all nine children were listed twice. Omitting the legal jargon, the suit was brought to gain clear title to a piece of land William had bought, which had since been resold, twice in fact. From the lack of records, it appears that William Jackson had no other property, though, in Tennessee, there is a woeful lack of records pertaining to estate inventories and sales, guardianships, distribution of property, etc. I am grateful that he had not paid for this property which he apparently contracted for just prior to his death, and for which there is no deed, as this action brought about a suit requiring the names of his children. The situation brought about by the abnormal lack of records - guardianships even if there was no estate - was saved through a fluke!

Mary Delaney of Brazoria County, Texas, died in 1870. A nuncupative will in which she left her property to her son, Edward, was attested to by witnesses. Neither her husband or her other children were mentioned. Very frustrating, isn't it? But also unusual, as it is seldom that we find a will of any type made by a woman when her husband was still living. James Delaney brought suit claiming that this property was their homestead and the buildings thereon were their business. This action necessitated his naming all their children except their eldest son. Perhaps the latter was dead by that time. An interesting fact: James Delaney lost the suit. This seems very odd in a state where wives were considered little more than chattels (by law, that is) until very recently. Other records revealed that a legal separation (being Irish Roman Catholics, they would not consider divorce) and a division of property had occurred some years previously. This abnormal situation proved to be a boon as there is no probate record for James Delaney.

The following evidently is a holographic will as there were no witnesses to the signature of the testator: [Ed. Note - As it is entirely in the handwriting of the testator, once that handwriting has been identified, the holographic will is said to "prove itself."]

In the name of God Amen This is my last will &c lst It's my desire that all my Just debts be paid and then my property both real & personal be equally divided between my [6] children Jane W. Lewis, Lucy J. Lewis, Lilburne L. Lewis, Elizabeth Lewis, Robert Lewis & James R. Lewis, reserving to my beloved but cruel wife Letitia G. Jnr Jesse Young & Thomas Terry Given under my hand this & revoking all and every other will heretofore made, [Ed. Note - This must be an interlinear insertion, as it interrupts a sentence.] ninth day of Apl Eighteen hundred and Twelve

Lilburne Lewis

NB. my dog nero I do hereby bequeath unto my beloved father. L.L. Rocky Hill Apl 9th 1812 Mr James McCawley I have fallen a victim to my beloved but cruel Letitia I die in the hope of being united to my other wife in heaven take care of this will & come here that we may be decently buried Adieu L. Lewis NB. within this inclosure myself and brother requests be entered [IN-TERRED?] in the same coffin and in the same grave Rocky Hill Apl 10th 1812 my beloved but cruel Letitia, receive this as a pledge of my forgiveness to your connections (?) the day of I owe you no malice but die on account of your Judgement is to come absence and my dear little son James Adieu my love Lilburne Lewis [Livingston County, Kentucky, Will Book A, page 34]

Upon first reading, this will appears amusing while raising questions. On second reading, one begins to see much more - tragedy, love and mystery. The document contains an enormous amount of information and reveals Lilburne as a well-educated man. Letitia was a second wife who deserted her husband, taking their one child, but I do not believe he would have forgiven her if another man had been involved. This was not a "May and December" marriage for his five children by his first wife were still minors and, with no mention of their choosing a guardian(s), were presumably all under fourteen years of age. "Within this inclosure" can be interpreted two ways: The added note as an inclosure, or to be interred in an inclosure such as a family cemetery. How did Lilburne Lewis know he and his brother would die at the same time? Was he planning to kill his brother and then commit suicide? "Myself and brother requests" suggests to me that it was the wish of both to be buried together. If "beloved but cruel Letitia" came between them and Lilburne killed his brother as a result, I doubt they would have wished to be buried together. (If anyone knows or finds the answer to this puzzle, please let me know!)

Whatever the reason for his death, Mr. Lewis used care in the making of his will. His consideration for the children by his first wife and his sisters, in their care of them, is notable. And he did not forget to provide for his dog, Nero, which is another indication of his kindness. The naming of five executors (most unusual) and having his will delivered directly to one of them makes it very clear that Mr. Lewis wanted no mischance to prevent the execution of his wishes. This abnormal will provides much genealogical information but oh, the mystery it creates! The following is a witnessed will:

In the name of God Amen. I Chesley Gates of Jessamine County and state of Kentucky Being in perfect sense and memory and being about to set out on a long and perilous journey do make constitute and ordain this my will and Testament in manner & form following (To wit) First it is my desire that my Executors herein after named sell by Public sale, private contract or any method they think most to advantage or any part thereof so soon as they think proper the following Landed property (To wit) One equal undivided moiety or half of one hundred and seventy three (more or less) acres of Land held in partnership with William Shreve Esq. which we Bought of George and Daniel Evans; One Equal moiety or undivided half of Six hundred and three acres of Land held in partnership with Henry French and left to me by my Brother David Gates lying on Main Licking; also as many of my in lots and out lots (to be laid out by my Exrs) as they think proper, they giving as long Credits as the nature of the purposes they are to be sold for may require or they may think most to advantage & answer the purposes herein after mentioned Out of the proceeds of sd sales and the debts due to me I first of all desire my Just debts may be paid

Chesley Gates was not a direct ancestor but I am more than proud to claim kinship, as this is the most interesting and informative will I have encountered. Because of its unusual nature, I shall discuss in some detail the historical tidbits and the educational, legal and genealogical aspects.

There are two items of historical interest. In Kentucky I was told that many wills mention "a long and perilous journey to Virginia," and that a number of these men were killed by Indians. Whether by Indians or illness, Chesley was dead within six months of making his will. This mention of bequeathing Library stock was the first clue the employees at the Kentucky Historical Society had to the manner in which the library was organized. From reading Lexington newspapers of the 1790's I learned that those who owned shares could designate which books they would like to have ordered, but the requests of non-members were considered also.

At a time when only a small percentage of the population could read and write, Chesley demonstrated that he was well educated. His will is longer than most, spelling and grammar are good, and he stated very clearly exactly what he wanted done by his executors. Notice that he desired his wife to "raise and Educate" his children. Probably such education was not of the formal sort we know, but I would think a man of education expected his girls to learn the three R's at least. In 1800 it was the usual thing for guardians to be appointed when the father had died. Chesley said, "untill they arrive at an age sufficient to choose," which was usually fourteen in most states. It certainly wasn't a lack of male relatives that prompted his decision.

Whereas the witnesses to the signature on a will normally attest to such signature's having been written in their presence, here we find that someone familiar with the testator's handwriting had to attest to its authenticity...another departure from the normal. Two witnesses are required and it is possible that Garland Chiles (perhaps his brother-in-law) went on the same "long and perilous journey" and did not return.

Though Chesley did not write "my beloved eldest Daughter Salley Gates," he did list the children in order of birth. In other respects, he went beyond the ideal. He married Susanna Chiles 19 August 1793 in Mercer County, Kentucky. From both the father's consent-to-the-marriage form and this will, we know that Susanna was the daughter of John Chiles. Susanna later remarried and her husband became the guardian of her daughters. The girls married and their respective inheritances were received and signed for by their husbands.

Chesley very kindly named two brothers, David and Elijah. A printed genealogy states that John (my husband's great-great-grandfather) was the eldest son of Elijah. John married in 1824 and died in 1829 so he does not appear as head of a household on any census, under his own name. In 1810 Elijah listed three sons under ten years of age and one son ten to sixteen. Since James, "son of Elijah Gates," is named in Chesley's 1800 will, it becomes obvious that he and not John was the eldest [i.e., the other three nephews were not born in 1800]. So this will enlarged the Gates family and brought us closer to the birth date of an ancestor.

After finding this marvelous will, I looked further into the records of Chesley Gates and found his marriage bond with the consent form signed by John Chiles. With this, another Gates surfaced - John. John and Elijah witnessed the consent [bond?]. This John has not yet been placed and could have been another brother or the father of Elijah, David and Chesley.

Some may be interested only in proving ancestors in the direct line while others will want at least the names of siblings, if nothing more. Though wills as informative as the one made by Chesley Gates are rare, it does prove that treasure may be there if you will only dig for it. This abnormal testament revealed very rich treasure indeed!

A WORD TO THE WISE

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be orderly! I received a batch of probate papers and neatly arranged them according to date before tackling the job of deciphering the four different handwritings. In each document I was able to read a few words that had baffled me in the previous one.

When I was halfway through, it dawned on me that I should have transcribed the easiest ones first, since they all involved essentially the same names, "goods and chattels," sums, and legal terms. Next time I'll evaluate the papers as to handwriting and clarity of the copy before I start. By starting each document on a fresh page, I can arrange them according to date after all are typed. (HHR)

SOME LEGAL TRIVIA

Legal Ages for Marriages. According to a filler sent me from a 1984 issue of Bedford County [TN] Historical Quarterly, in Tennessee the age of consent (which was adopted from the common law) was 14 for males and 12 for females. She stated, "This explains why 14-year-old boys became heads of households, could buy land, etc." [I wonder if she did not mean "age of discretion" here.] But the next paragraph reveals that the Tennessee Legislature has now set 16 as the minimum age for marriage.

There is an excellent table, "Ages of Legal Action" covering just about every situation on page 186 of The Source by Arlene Eakle and Johni Cerny. On the next page I found the long-sought explanation of why a man devised one-seventeenth of his estate to each of only 16 named legatees: "In states that allowed the eldest son a double portion of his father's estate, an estate with seven shares has only six heirs." The amount of information in this book is astounding. I have abandoned my plan of reading it via interesting topics in the index and am reading it straight through!

Indenture. Most of us think of indenture as a period of service rendered by a man or woman to the man who had paid his/her passage from England to the American colonies. Indenture is defined in The Source as "A contract in two or more copies binding one person to labor for another and learn a specific trade during a specific period of time...."

That popular definition is true but incomplete, as I discovered when I purchased one in England. The term "indenture" includes any mutual agreement, verbatim copies of which were cut apart in an indented line. Inotched or wavy--see heraldic definition of indented in dictionary. Thus each party could have a copy, and, in case of later dispute about the terms, the indented edges could be fitted together. A forged copy would not match the indented line.

My parchment document starts out "THIS INDENTURE Tripartite," as there were two sellers and one purchaser of several tracts of land in England in 1656. It is an agreement or contract made by the parties of the first and second parts to sell and by the party of the third part to buy - nothing to do with servitude.

I forget the grammatical term for this (referring to a whole by one of its parts) and would welcome a reminder. A common example of such usage today is saying "a paperback" when we mean "a book with paper backs." People used to say "a redskin" when they meant a man with "red" skin, just as the native Americans referred to Europeans as "White-Eyes" (even though many were not blond).

It's really amusing that an important legal document should come to be known by the mere edge that separated it from another!

LINKING UP TO A VERY IMPORTANT PERSONAGE

When the suggestion was made that AGS Quarterly publish accounts of our members' successful attempts to prove their descent from famous people, your editor's first reaction was negative. Genealogists have long had an odious reputation as glory-seekers, resulting in a snobbish attitude when that goal was achieved.

That's what we should get away from, I though -- glorifying our prominent ancestors and thereby tacitly belittling our obscure ones. Then came the realization that those who have followed a family's fortunes over several generations are well aware that no line is perfect -- there are ups and downs in finances, morals, education, public acclaim. No one has a right to look down on anyone else just because some of his ancestors at some periods were at the top of their heap! We all have our V.I.P.'s and our black sheep, our "somebodies" and our "nobodies."

I remember that when I started my genealogical research, I secretly hoped to link up to some famous person or some noble line -- didn't you? That was not my main purpose, but I though it would be nice. However, as I traced my lines in Virginia I found that many were the poorer relations of historically important personages, such as Judge Edmund Pendleton. Oh, our immigrant ancestor Moore Fauntleroy imported more people than anyone else for several years (thereby acquiring a lot of land), but that didn't rate even a footnote in the standard histories of that colony, or a listing in their indices.

When I turned my search to New England I found that our Morse line was so distant from that of the famous Samuel F.B. Morse that the printed genealogies did not even attempt to define the relationship. But eventually I proved descent from Elder William Brewster, an ancestor whose name I could modestly drop into any conversation, and that should have been enough to satisfy any ambition. However, when I discovered that some claimed that his wife was Mary Wentworth and in her distant background were numerous dukes, lords and obscure kings, I developed a craving for noble coats of arms. I avidly read all sorts of vague lineages and conflicting hypotheses, and filled out dozens of charts with strange but high-sounding names.

Gradually I learned which genealogists were the most respected, and I read that most of them disputed the theory that Mrs. William Brewster had been born Mary Wentworth. So I had to creep back down that glory-seeking trail dragging my borrowed coats of arms behind me.

Later I started off on another chivalric crusade when I read that Cecil Blount DeMille, the movie mogul, had sent Miss Helen Prescott to England to trace his Blount line and she had linked him to Charlemagne! Our grandfather's middle name was Blount (his grandmother's maiden name), so my dear friend and genealogical mentor set to work tying our line to that illustrious Blount lineage, and deluged me with charts filled with the names of lords and ladies who flourished "when knighthood was in flower."

But do you know, by that time I was so absorbed in the half-educated Tennessee pioneer, Joseph Brown, that I never even tested (much less proved) all those links back to that universally acknowledged V.I.P. I just don't feel a bond of kinship with Lyderie, Count of Harleback, Governor of Flanders.

Yet it is pleasing to link up with a historic and /orromantic figure, if not in a straight chain, at least collaterally, as in chain mail, you might say. So, AGS members, get out your pen knife and sharpen your quill pen to write out your experiences in tracing your ancestry back to some prominent V.I.P. To share your luck and your skill with our Quarterly readers, send your accounts to 2202 West 10, Austin TX 78703, NOT to the Society's postoffice box. We will publish them as space permits.

DICTIONARY OF SOUTH CAROLINA BIOGRAPHY, Vol. I, by Richard N. Côte', Editor-in-Chief, and Patricia H. Williams, Assistant Editor. Easley SC: Southern Historical Press, 1985. Hardbound; typewriter typeface; 6 x 9"; pp. 395 + vii.

IEW

This neat volume contains 1,099 thumbnail sketches of noteworthy South Carolinians culled from 52 volumes of biography which ranged from the serious collective biographies through local and church histories to the "vanity press" -- commonly known as "mug books." Some little-known titles were chosen because they covered blacks and women, who have been under-represented in the standard biographies of the past.

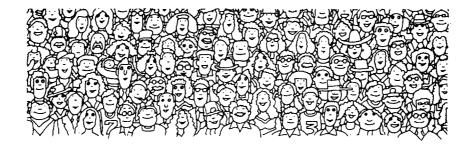

Selection of subjects was determined by two criteria: "each was a native or adoptive resident of South Carolina at some time, and each, in their [sic] own way, did something at some time to cause a biographical sketch to be written..." (even if it was more deplorable than admirable).

The Bibliography (53 entries) should be a valuable tool for South Carolina researchers, worth making a copy of to carry in one's briefcase for visits to the library. There is no index, nor need for one, since no spouses' names are given and the subjects are in alphabetical order. Adequate directions for using the book and an explanation of terms and abbreviations enhances the value of this well-typed reference book, which covers subjects almost up to the present.

The format is in this order: surnames in all caps, given names, years of birth and death, place(s) of residence, occupation(s), the number of the source or sources in the Bibliography, and page number(s) therein.

The thoroughness of each sketch no doubt depends on which of many research assistants did the work. I notice that no death date is given for Col. Ezekiel Polk and that he is labeled a Loyalist. Since most of his life was spent in North Carolina and Tennessee (where he died in 1824), it is not surprising that their South Carolina sources did not reveal his death date. But to counter the brand "Loyalist," it must be said that he spent as much time allied with the Patriots as with the Loyalists, serving as a captain in an active campaign against the Tories but "taking protection" from them when his home property was threatened! He was conveniently exonerated of the charge of disloyalty to the American cause in the public press during his grandson's presidential campaign ("Colonel Ezekiel Polk: Pioneer and Patriarch" by Charles Grier Sellers Jr. in William and Mary College Quarterly, 3rd Series, Vol. X No. 1, January 1953).

We are eagerly looking forward to the second volume of this Dictionary of South Carolina Biography.

FIRST SETTLERS OF SOUTH CAROLINA 1670-1700, by Agnes Leland Baldwin. Easley, SC: Southern Historical Press, Inc. 1985. Hardbound; printer; s type; 6 x 9; pp. 268 + xii.

Agnes Baldwin has assembled over 20,000 references to more than 3300 persons who arrived in South Carolina between 1670 and 1700. Arranged in alphabetical order, these entries mainly give the approximate arrival date and source(s) for that conclusion -- occasionally a bit more. Twenty-five publications are cited, seven of which were edited by that eminent authority, A.S. Salley.

Three appendices furnish interesting statistical tables: Occupations (e.g., carpenters, mariners, merchants, planters); Military Officers of Carolina; and Official Government Positions. The last is especially helpful because South Carolina has had some offices not so called in other states. The lists would have been more valuable if dates of incumbency had been given.

Several misspellings were noted in the appendices, and they may have been copied verbatim from old records. But since all else has been brought up to date, the occupations "Chururgeon," "Gardiner," "Joyner," and "Pylott" irritate the eye, as do "Marshall" and "Provost Marshall."

Although most sketches give only a date before which the subject arrived, for a fortunate few people the information includes title, occupation, government position, date of arrival, origin, name of ship, names of others in the family, and birth and death dates. They had a family genealogist 'way back there!

Researchers with Huguenot ancestors should welcome the citation of Source Q, the list of French and Swiss who applied for naturalization around 1696, prepared by Daniel Ravenel and published in 1888.

This book is a good starting point for those whose ancestors were in South Carolina late in the 17th Century.

EDGEFIELD COUNTY, SOUTH CAROLINA, ABSTRACTS OF DEED BOOKS 1-12, 1786-1796, Volume One, by Ge Lee Corley Hendrix, C.G. Easley SC: Southern Historical Press, Inc. 1985. Hardbound; typewriter type; 6 x 9"; 300 pp.; maps, plats, appendices A-J; full-name index.

This book contains outstandingly thorough abstracts of deeds, supremely enhanced by numerous small plats of the land involved, showing adjoining land owners and waterways. Proper names are in all caps (which can be dizzifying en masse), and all dates and page numbers are given.

Appendices include statutes (dating back to 1731) that pertain to land grants, inheritance, surveying, etc. and a list of justices, sheriffs and surveyors with the years in which these abstracts show that they served. A note to the index alerts the reader to the fact that a plus mark indicates that the same name appears more than once on the page, a helpful device indeed. Attention is drawn to some subject headings, such as "Miscellaneous trivia," "Places" and "Waterways." And, would you believe it, even the little plats are indexed!

To top it all off, there are four legible maps of the area, two serving as endpapers so they are instantly accessible.

The only thing left to ask for is that some equally intelligent and beneficent researchers will replicate this fine book for all the other Districts of South Carolina.

WASHINGTON COUNTY, TENNESSEE, MARRIAGES, 1780-1870, by Goldene Fillers Burgner. Easley SC: Southern Historical Press, Inc., 1985. Hardbound; typewriter and computer print-out typefaces; ca 6 x 9"; pp. xiii + 170 + Index compiled by Melodey Mozeley Hauch; map; 14 line drawings.

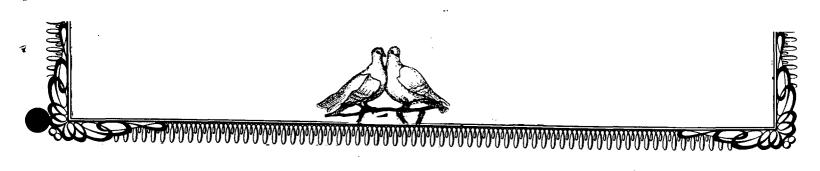

This valuable collection of marriage data was compiled from official records at Jonesboro augmented by such sources as John Sevier's Diary, pension papers, Bible records, DAR papers, Greene County records, etc. Some were marriage bonds, some licenses - with date of solemnization also, when known, as well as name of officiant.

The full-name Index includes every name involved, a rare treat. The county map names a dozen or more creeks.

The Introduction outlines the history of the area and the procedure for taking up land: the head of a family could buy 640 acres plus 100 for wife and for each child, at the rate of 40 shillings per 100 acres. Thus a man and wife could get 740 acres for about 15 pounds, payable in installments. [Correct me if I figured wrong, or am mistaken about installments!]

The quaint little sketches (presumably by Ms Burgner - no credit ascribed) include churches, log cabins, taverns, even large stone houses. (Note the amusing slip of the pen on page viii where the word epithet was used in place of epitaph. (Epithet is a descriptive term, often opprobrious, as in Jack the Ripper, Beast Butler, Hanging Judge Lynch...)

Washington County, Tennessee, Marriages, 1780-1870 is a splendid source for for those who are "ansearchin'" in early Tennessee.

ARKANSAS PENSIONERS 1818-1900, compiled by Dorothy E. Payne. Easley SC: Southern Historical Press, Inc., 1985. Hardbound; typewriter type; ca 6 x 9"; 220 pp.; map; full-name index.

As stated in the Preface, this book was compiled "to try to close a gap left between the time that Arkansas became a state and the 1850 census." It contains "Records of Some Arkansas Residents Who Applied to the Federal Government for Benefits Arising from Service in Federal Military Organizations (Revolutionary War, War of 1812, Indian and Mexican Wars)."

The reader is advised to take time to decipher explanations in the Preface: how to obtain copies, which pensions have been abstracted and which not, which sections are indexed herein and which not, etc. This reviewer cannot understand one statement: "In applying for copies of applications, it is important to include the REMARKS information." I did not find any information labeled "Remarks" in these abstracts of pension applications.

In addition to the applications themselves, she consulted Ledgers of Payments, Military Service Records, and Original Muster Rolls, "all stored in the National Archives." Furthermore, she checked census records, probate records, deed records - a truly prodigious amount of research.

The pension applications are abstracted in great detail, and include a lot of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee history. The neat and legible index includes all persons in this section except those without given names, such as Capt. Engard. Alphabetized muster rolls of Arkansas units are not included.

There is a map of Arkansas Territory ca 1823 on which river names are fairly legible—always a great help in locating pioneers. Ms Payne apparently went to the repository of the original muster rolls, which "are not available by mail." One must marvel at such dedication, and wonder how long it took her to compile this valuable and fascinating book!

MISSOURI MARRIAGES TO 1850 by Linda S. Barber Brooks; privately published 1984. Hardbound; typewriter type; $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ "; 897 pp.

This mammoth tome is sure to be a treasure to Missouri researchers, as it has surnames of both bride and groom in all caps, date of marriage, and county name (abbreviated if over six letters).

But I must confess that the waste of paper and typing (print-out) time does make my gorge rise. After recording all the marriage data with groom's name first, the compiler proceeded to repeat everything with the bride first. And every surname is typed every time. After seeing ABERNATHY typed in caps (which is harder to read than caps and lower case) 12 times, who would notice if it changed to ABERNETHY? or ALLEN to ALLIN, BLANKENSHIP to BLANKINSHIP, or BOWEN to BOWER? Too much repetition dulls the eye.

Furthermore, for dates the form used is 09/01/1849, which is confusing in the extreme. Not everyone agrees with the style preferred by genealogists (day, month, year) so that could mean the ninth of January OR September the first. It's so much safer to use a three-letter abbreviation of the month.

Mrs. Brooks chose a novel way to indicate a name she could not read, or perhaps had been replaced by a hole in the paper. In the bride-first section, after BLANFORD we find BLANK Julia, BLANK Magdalin etc., then BLANK(?) for several given names, then BLANK Angeline followed by BLANK Blank. I cannot figure out her system. Later there appear some ladies whose surname apparently was BLANK. It would be interesting to learn how she arrived at her scheme. Male BLANKs are more or less in alphabetical order.

There is no notation of when these marriage records began--1822 is the ear-liest year I noticed.

Good luck to users of this hefty volume (nearly twice as thick as it needed to be). I hope you don't suffer a sprained wrist!

MISSOURI MARRIAGES TO 1850, 2 volumes by Linda Barber Brooks, (c) 1983. Distributed by Ingmire Publications, 10166 Clairmont Dr, St. Louis MO 63136. Paper back; typewriter type; 8½ x 11"; Vol. I 219 pp.; Vol. II 223 pp.

These two volumes differ from the hardbound volume in the names of the counties covered, but there is no explanation of how the counties were chosen. Each volume goes through the alphabet but with different county names, which are on the covers. Having done so much research in Missouri, Mrs. Brooks should know how the counties' names are spelled, but some of the names on her covers differ from the spellings in U.S. Postal Guide, which shows Putnam, not Putman; only one t in Scotland; Moniteau; Ste. Genevieve; no period after Van in Van Buren . . .

Although some of my complaints about the hardbound volume apply to these books also, at least she did not waste space repeating all the data with the brides' names first, but sensibly settled for an index of brides' names. If the surname was not clear, she indexed it both BIRD and BOND, not BLANK, and she showed the alternate interpretation in parentheses in the listing itself. Susan was not forced into the index.

One of the arrangements in these books is the one I prefer: the groom's surname in all caps, his first name in caps and lower case; bride's given name(s) in caps and lower case, then her surname in all caps. True, it is easier to spot her surname when it is in all caps and aligns with all surnames below, but I'm accustomed to seeing her name in natural order, like the name of a co-author in a bibliography.

My apologies for being so critical -- these really are fine source books for Missouri marriages prior to 1850.

In Lynch's abstracts of the wills and inventories of Williamson County, Tennessee I noticed the name William Livingfellow, Deceased. I was amused at the seeming contradiction until I saw that Ann B. Stringfellow was administratrix and N.B. Stringfellow a buyer. It looks as if the abstractor misread the name of the deceased, thus ruining the little joke.

ADVENTURES OF A CENSUS TAKER By Juanita Goodson

[The following account is adapted from a paper written for an Austin Community College's Continuing Education course entitled "Writing Memoirs and Family Journals." It seems likely that some of Mrs. Goodson's experiences may parallel those of census enumerators of a century or more ago, although her emphasis was on agricultural products. Difficulty of access may explain why some homes failed to get visited and enumerated! -- Editor]

During the 1930's a lot of schools would not hire married women, but thank goodness Uncle Sam would hire them to take the census. So I got all my supplies from the census headquarters, and on a Saturday when my husband took our five-year-old son with him to the county seat to attend to some school business, I stayed at home to study and work out all the lengthy details of the government's instructions.

The opening day finally arrived and I started out with my son and our lunch. My first stop, lucky for me, was at the home of a prosperous farmer. He was ready for me, more than I was ready for him, in spite of all my studying. He had books, knew how many chickens he had, how much money from eggs sold, what size fields of corn, cotton, maize, and hegari. Now hegari - that was a new one on me. I'm not for sure I know yet what it is.

I had often visited on my maternal grandfather's farm and seen cotton patches, and peanuts, watermelons, blackberries and dewberries growing, as well as a vegetable garden. In the fall of the year, in Central Texas I have seen beautiful rust-colored acres of maize that looked like a handsome carpet spread over the earth, but never hegari.

This particular farmer helped me a lot. His wife knew what she had raised in her garden and what she had canned. I felt especially pleased with them. This is not bad, I thought; it can even be fun - and it was.

But alas, they turned out to be one out of very, very few who kept records, or knew what they were doing. Most of the others were very poor and lived in rented houses on small rented tracts of land. If they had chickens, I often went out and counted them myself. They seldom knew how many acres of anything they had raised. Often they had one or two cows, just enough for milk and butter for themselves. They did little or no home canning.

I went to houses where there were no roads. I just followed directions from one house to the next, which might be miles apart. "House" here is probably a euphemism. The Great Depression of 1929 had now been going on for 10 years. These people had become used to poverty. Poverty - like milk and cornbread for supper, maybe an egg for breakfast if the hen laid an egg. Running water in the house was just a dream for the exhausted housewife.

I recall once seeing a well-made little road, so I took it - roads of any kind being scarce in that part of Coryell County then. I had gone about two miles when I met a rock wall, about waist high, set up by someone for some unknown purpose. Nothing to do but back up a hill, around a corner (at the same time), for the space was only inches wider than my old Chevrolet. My five-year-old standing on the back seat looking out the little window directed me up, around, and finally out of the dead-end lane.

I am very afraid of dogs, so I soon learned to stop the car, blow the horn, and wait for someone to come out and assure me there was no dog, or else to take control of him or (usually) them.

Just as my first subject was an excellent, successful farmer, the last one was a very successful rancher who owned thousands of acres. He was an A&M graduate, proudly stating, "No, I don't raise chickens. I raise cattle. I have farm hands on my land who raise the feed for them." His records were not as thorough or as up to date and ready as those of the farmer, but he was Texas-sure of himself, his stock, his lands, his helpers.

I reached his home late one evening near the last of April [?]. I still had to take a couple more wagon trails to enumerate his helpers. By the time I left the ranch headquarters, the sun was going down. There I was on a huge ranch, with wagon trails leading off in all directions, but I knew I had to go west, so I followed the setting sun. Yes, this led me to the main gate and the Pidcoke road—my last gate to get out and open, get in and drive through, stop again and go to close the gate. It's a good thing I was young!

I made my left-hand turn onto the county road and felt a bump, bump, bump. Stop again - yes, a flat. I had never fixed a flat tire, and haven't till yet. Nothing to do but get in, roll slowly down the hill, and roll into the only filling station and store in the so-called town of Pidcoke. The man fixed the tire and we went on about ten miles to Copperas Cove, where we could spend the night with my husband's grandmother.

I had almost completed my 1940 census, except the final trip to Waco to turn in all my records. I could never turn in all the experience I had acquired... [At the office] I presented all my facts to the man I was directed to. "One little item," he says, "is missing. That late report that was sent out to the enumerators by the government." I looked at the form and said, "I've not seen this before."

"It must have been lost in the mail. No trouble," he says. "It can be easily remedied - just correct these three or four items." When I apologized he pointed to many people busily working at tables and said, "Some of those have been here as long as two weeks correcting their mistakes." I was dismissed, and rejoined my waiting husband and son in about thirty minutes.

My 1940 census-taking assignment was completed. After deducting day-to-day expenses and the trips to Waco, I found that my profit was seven dollars and a few cents.

ERRORS THAT HAVE BEEN FOUND IN CENSUS AND TAX RECORDS

There is a page missing from the microfilmed 1870 census of WASHINGTON CO, TX. Under Evergreen Post Office there is a skip from Household #163 to #173. As found in another library, the missing page lists: 166 King continued; 167 Livinson; 168 Wm. McCarty; 169 E.W. Dogen; 170 Curtin; 171 Harris; 172 Martin. (Submitted by J. Dodgen) (continued next page)

You may find "Assessments of non-rendered lands in CONCHO & McCULLOUGH counties for 1861" within the 1861 Tax Records of San Saba Co, TX. They were prepared by the same tax man, reports Tommy Lee Miles.

TIP: Watch for confusion of N and V! In Heads of Families, the substitute for the 1790 VIRGINIA Census, I found Clement Nance in PITTSYLVANIA Co. in 1782, but in 1785, same county, his name had been interpreted Clement Vance. Yet William Nance was the same in both years.

Another pitfall is Northington/Worthington - handwriting look-alikes.

Thanks to Roger Scanland's article "U.S. Census Oddities" (The Genealogical Journal, Vol. 11, No. 2, Summer 1982) we have the following valuable information about censuses in TEXAS. In 1820 (census now lost) and 1830, the areas now contained in BOWIE and RED RIVER counties, Texas, were enumerated as part of the census of old MILLER Co, AR. "This census may include some people living in what is now the southeast corner of OKLAHOMA."

Apparently no censuses exist for CLAY and PALO PINTO counties for 1870. Since the 1860 censuses were taken in those two counties, Indian depredations had virtually depopulated them.

When the new filming of the 1870 census of Texas was done, they seem to have forgotten DIMMITT Co. On the earlier filming you can find one page which shows a dozen or so cowboys in Dimmitt.

Mr. Scanland's article contains many more helpful tips pertaining to the various states. A copy of it kept beside the Handy Book for Genealogists or printed indexes to censuses on library shelves would be a great boon to researchers everywhere.

Send in any errors you have run across in censuses, indexes, etc. so we can pass them on and save others' trouble.

CORRECTION: In our September issue on page 186 under Deaths - L.M. should be Lydia Margaret Wilson Conn. I also apologize for not checking the alphabetization of the Duty-Scott Index before retyping it as I received it. I was concentrating on putting parentheses around maiden names and did not notice that some sequences were wrong.

BASSANO "IMMIGRATION EXPERIENCES" - It is with regret that we must omit the expected installment of this feature. So many interesting articles were sent in, topics suggested, and fillers accumulated over the year that we just don't have space or time in this issue. (It takes more time than you'd think to abstract and annotate a few pages.) Reviewing the seven books that were handed to me at the September meeting took precedence [Remember, that second e is long!], because I wanted to get them to the Library as soon as possible so you all can enjoy them. The November issue is always Rush-Rush because after I type it I have to index it and then type the whole year's index. The "Immigration Experience" will resume in March, Deo volente!

MISCELLANY

Thanks to Jean Byerly Hufnall for devoting a whole column to publicizing the AGS Workshop in August. Not only did long-time member Hufnall give all the information about the workshop, but she "plugged" our Quarterly as well. Her interesting well-written column "Genealogy Notes" appears in the La Grange Journal.

The Genealogical Library in Salt Lake City, Utah was scheduled to re-open on October 25th in a new building west of Temple Square. It had been closed in order to move their tremendous collection of 160,000 books and 1,500,000 reels of microfilmed records (the equivalent of 5,500,000 bound volumes).

We have been asked to announce that there is a quarterly, Worthington Descendants, available for $12 per year from Frances Brengle, 6619 Pheasant Road #16, Baltimore MD 21220. The editor allows unlimited free queries pertaining to Worthington [or Northington? initial letter not clear] and collaterals.

SOME ("HOPEFULLY") HELPFUL TIPS

"The one who/whom we think is ..." Most of us remember that we shouldn't say "to who," but when that pronoun occurs between verbs, we tend to get a bit uncertain. In the classic genealogical narrative about three brothers who came to America, we may read "Peter is the one whom we believe is our ancestor," the writer assuming that "whom" is the object of "we believe." However, if you will mentally place parentheses or commas around "we believe," "we think," "it is assumed," "as far as we know," and such qualifying terms, you will see that the whole clause "who is our ancestor" is the object of "we believe." "Who" is the subject of the second verb "is."

BUT the opposite is the case when an infinitive is involved: "Peter is the one whom we believe to be our ancestor." [Remember that "to" alone does not an infinitive make: you have to have a verb, so "to who" is not an infinitive, but "to be" is.]

To make it crystal clear, substitute "he" for "who" and "him" for "whom," thus: "We believe he is our ancestor"; "We believe him to be our ancestor."

Now that you have mastered this little verbal hurdle, you can raise your eyebrow knowingly at the veddy, veddy supercilious secretary who thinks she is the epitome of elegance when she asks, "Whom shall I say is calling?" [Does she say to her boss, "Him is calling again"?]

"Lest We Forget" means, of course, so we won't forget. I recently saw the opposite used as the title of a book section in a genealogical publication: "Lest We Not Forget." Perhaps we all have an ancestor or so that we'd like to be reminded to forget!

Don't let time run out on you • • •

AGS dues are due 1 January 1986. Send to our Treasurer at 3106 Skylark Dr, Austin 78757. $9 for one, $10 for two (which gives you 4 pages in June issue)

PURPOSE: Austin Genealogical Society was organized in 1960 as a non-profit corporation chartered by the State of Texas. Its purposes are to collect and preserve genealogical and historical information about the people of Texas, particularly pertaining to the City of Austin and to Travis and surrounding counties; to instruct and assist members in genealogical research; and to publish public and private records of genealogical interest. Gifts and Bequests to Austin Genealogical Society are tax-deductible.

MEMBERSHIP is open to all upon payment of annual dues: $9 per individual, or Family Membership at $10 for two in the same household, entitling them to one copy of each Quarterly, and two pages apiece (a total of four pages for $10 whether one or two persons) in the Ancestor Listing Issue (June). [See AGS QUARTERLY below.]

DUES FOR THE ENSUING YEAR ARE PAYABLE on or before the FIRST DAY OF JANUARY each year. Members who have not paid by February 1st will be dropped from the membership roll and will not receive the March Quarterly until dues and charge for mailing separately are paid. Send payments to AGS Treasurer at 3106 Skylark Drive, Austin TX 78757. SUBSCRIPTION TO THE QUARTERLY is the same as membership dues. All are on a calendar-year basis; if you join late in the year and pay the full amount, you are entitled to back quarterlies for that year if any are available (we order few extras), but there will be a fee for mailing them.

MISSING COPIES. If your Quarterly does not reach you by the 10th of April, July, October or December, notify the Society at Box 1507, Austin TX 78767-1507 (but Exchange Quarterly Chairmen use TEXAS STATE LIBRARY address given on inside front cover). Members who fail to give the Society sufficient advance notice of a change of address will be responsible for the postal fee for returned copies and for remailing the copy at individual rather than bulk mailing rates.

MEETINGS of the general membership are held at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Tuesday of each month except August and December, while the Board of Directors meets at 6:30 unless changed, in which case Directors will be notified. MEETING PLACE: Room 12, First Baptist Church, 901 Trinity. Enter on east side (Neches Street). Free parking in lot south of church, 9th & Trinity. Visitors are welcome.

AGS QUARTERLY is sent free to all members about the middle of March, June, September and November. To save time and postage, send material for and letters about the Quarterly (except subscriptions and missing copies) to Editor at 2202 West 10th Street, Austin TX 78703. Contributions of material are welcome and will be used at the discretion of the Editor, who may edit them to conform to our format. Neither the Society nor the editor shall be held responsible for such material; the contributor must vouch for its accuracy or disclaim it, and is responsible for copyright infringement. Opinions expressed by contributors do not necessarily reflect the consensus of the Society.

DEADLINES: 10th of February, May, August and October

ANCESTOR LISTING PAGES must reach the Editor at 2202 W. 10th, Austin TX 78703 by the TENTH OF MAY. They must be BLACK and LEGIBLE, whether typewritten, hand-printed, computer printout, or superior calligraphy. Allow space for binding at inner margins of facing pages, carefully checking horizontal charts. Otherwise, the Editor has to place some upside down to prevent loss of data in binding/stapling.

There are practically no restrictions on the kinds of material you may submit: for example, Lineage or Family Group charts, narratives, census data, family Bible records, cemetery inscriptions, queries, or a combination of forms, just so it is not under copyright. Be sure to proofread your material so we won't disseminate faulty data.

It is important to have your name and address on each page.
